STEEL MERGER IS HALTED BY COURT RULING

Eaton Wins Injunction In Fight Against Bethlehem Corporation.

Expect Case To Be Taken To High Court.

BULLETIN
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 29.—Writing in pencil upon 19 sheets of newspaper, Judge David G. Jenkins today handed down a ruling in common pleas court here holding invalid a proposal to merge Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation into a billion-dollar concern.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 29.—The billion-dollar lawsuit over the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation came to an end today when Judge David Jenkins granted an injunction against the consolidation of the two concerns.

Judge Jenkins handed down his decision at 8:15 o'clock this morning, a procedure which was held as extremely unusual since it is very seldom that a judge hands down a decision before court opens at nine o'clock.

The verdict of Judge Jenkins ends one of the most spectacular industrial lawsuits in the history of the nation and constitutes a brilliant victory for Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland millionaire who led the battle against the combine of the two companies.

Judge Jenkins has had the merger case under consideration for several weeks. The trial, a bitter affair which involved industrial giants of the east and the mid-west, was drawn out over a period of months. Millions of dollars were spent for and against the injunction and some of the most brilliant attorneys of the nation, including Newton D. Baker, chief defense counsel, participated in the legal battle.

By virtue of Judge Jenkins' surprising decision today, the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company and Bethlehem is definitely halted at least for the time being. It was expected, however, that the battle over the consolidation of the two concerns is far from finished and that the case may yet be carried to higher courts.

Bethlehem Steel Corporation had sought a consolidation with the Youngstown concern to strengthen its mid-west business.

Eaton, the so-called "little Napoleon of the middle west," vigorously opposed the set-up because it would take the control of Ohio's steel industry out of the state.

The merger proposal was submitted to the stockholders of the Youngstown company last April. After a sensational meeting, the proposal was approved. Immediately thereafter Eaton and his anti-merger adherents began their spectacular battle against the combine.

ICE IS CAUSE OF ACCIDENTS

No One Injured In Several Minor Crashes In and Near City Sunday

Slippery highways caused several auto collisions in the county over the week-end, although in all cases the occupants of cars, escaped without injuries.

Both cars were badly damaged when the Willys-Knight sedan belonging to M. L. Lewis of Columbus collided with the Ford sedan of Nelson Winifough, Jackson, Pa., at the intersection of Scioto-st. and Mill-st. Winifough was parked on Scioto-st. and when he attempted to turn around, he collided with the Lewis car, which was traveling south on Scioto-st. No one was hurt.

Fenders on the Willys-Knight were badly bent, glass was broken and bumpers were broken off. The Lewis car was taken to the Circleville Motors, and the Ford sedan was taken to Mr. Winifough's home on the Jackson-pk.

The radiator on the Chrysler coupe belonging to Miss Minnie Ray of Columbus, was torn loose, when the car skidded in the ditch, on the Chillicothe-pk, south of town and went in the ditch. In attempting to get the car out of the ditch, the radiator was torn off. Miss Ray escaped with no injuries, and the car was towed to the Circleville Motors garage for repairs.

Five persons escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon, when a group of Ashville boys riding in a Ford sedan, collided with the Pontiac sedan driven by C. L. Dressel of Columbus at the intersection of the Ringgold-pk and N. Court-st. Dressel was on the Ringgold-pk entering Court-st. when the Ashville lads turned into the pike and collided with the car. The Pontiac was brought to the Circleville Motors garage for repair.

BOY SINGS AT HOME, HOSPITAL

Billy Rundels, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Watts, E. Mount-st., was a guest Sunday evening at the Home and Hospital and sang several songs for the inmates there. His songs, all Christmas carols, were very well received.

Billy, singing over radio station WSLN, Columbus, next Sunday and over WCAH on Sunday, Jan. 10.

He, with his mother, Mrs. Mary Alice Rundels, are spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Watts.

800 MILLIONS WILL BE USED FOR BUILDINGS

Work Is Commenced Throughout Nation To Aid Employment.

MONEY IS READY

Chillicothe and Akron Are Included.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Within the next few months public and semi-public construction work representing an expenditure of more than $800,000,000 will be started in the United States with a definite relief to unemployment, Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the president's emergency employment committee announced today.

"All of this work has advanced beyond the stage of producing funds, authorization, selection of sites, litigation and other preliminary steps which frequently delay public construction programs," said Franklin T. Miller, head of the committee's public works section.

"Our estimate is based on personal letters and information on specific projects including state, municipal and county buildings, schools and highways, amounting to more than $2,000,000,000."

Miller said the normal annual construction of the country amounts to about $10,000,000,000, of which 35 to 40 per cent is for public works and 5 percent for federal works. Up to today reports coming in at the rate of $80,000,000 a day.

TO BEGIN

"This indicates that a very substantial amount of work which is not at all dependent upon commercial returns from rentals, manufacturing and so forth, will be under way shortly, provided that plans can be completed and contracts let," Miller continued. "We are hopeful that bills now before congress will expedite the work now being done in the office of the supervising architect, and permit the speeding up of plans and specifications."

Every effort is being made by the committee to remove obstacles which stand in the way of individual building projects. About $57,000,000 in construction, delayed for months, has been started within the last few weeks, notwithstanding the approach of winter.

Particularly large construction jobs have been started at Detroit, Pawtucket, R. I., Chillicothe, O., Akron, O., New Rochelle, N. Y., and Mineral Ridge, O.

AUTHORITIES FACE MURDER MYSTERY

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 29.—A gruesome mystery confronted Columbus and Cincinnati police today as efforts were made to identify the body of a young woman which was found strangled to death in a Cincinnati hotel yesterday, 18 hours after she and a man had registered as "Mr. and Mrs. H. Miller" of Columbus.

The man who accompanied the woman into the hotel was sought in connection with the death. He apparently fled after the woman was killed, leaving behind a note which: "She strangled herself. I tried to prevent her. Quarrelled."

Authorities stated following an investigation that the woman had been killed after a terrific struggle. Her skull was fractured, her neck broken and her chest badly bruised.

Following an autopsy, Coroner Fred C. Swing returned a verdict in the case of homicide.

FORMER LOCAL RESIDENT DIES

Funeral services were held Monday in the Coal Grove station Methodist church for J. T. Hailey, husband of Mrs. Belle Hailey, formerly Miss Belle Brobeck, a successful teacher, in the local schools for a number of years. Burial was in the Coal Grove cemetery.

Mr. Hailey was a well known resident of this community for a number of years and served during the Civil War.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Abner Griffie, Ohio-st., who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Berger hospital three weeks ago, was taken to his home Monday. His condition is good.

All Should Tour City Streets, See Holiday Lighting

Never in the history of Circleville have the residential sections been so well lighted and decorated giving the Yuletide atmosphere, as this year with the large number of entries in the Home Lighting and Decorating contest. Last year, with the first contest, many homes were entered with some beautiful lighting and decorating arrangements but this year there are more entries and each decorator has entered into the spirit of the season and arranged attractive displays.

Those who have not taken the time to ride over the town to view these lighted homes should do so tonight or tomorrow, before the contest ends.

The contestants should be certain their lights are on and the decorations are in order so that the beauty of their homes can be enjoyed by the many persons who will see them and to be sure they will be properly judged.

Many comments have been heard on the beautiful scenes through the city and those who have entered should feel proud of the part they have taken to help make Circleville one of the most attractive cities in Ohio.

CHILICOTHE MAN CLAIMED BY INJURIES

William Woodrow, Aged 58, Dies In Hospital Here Late Saturday.

HURT IN WRECK

Mrs. Woodrow, Hurt Too, Is Taken Home.

Injuries which he received Friday afternoon in an automobile accident caused the death of William M. Woodrow, aged 58, prominent Chillicothe man, at Berger hospital Saturday at 10 p. m. Woodrow, a former prosecuting attorney of Ross-co, suffered from a number of broken bones and cuts and from the time of the accident it was known he could not recover although every effort was put forth by physicians and hospital attaches to save his life.

Mr. Woodrow suffered a dislocated and broken left hip, a broken thigh bone in the left leg between the hip and the knee, a broken left ankle, a broken right ankle, a broken right arm between the shoulder and elbow, a broken right wrist, a crushed right elbow and broken left wrist.

Mrs. Woodrow, who was seriously injured with her husband, was taken to Chillicothe Sunday. Her condition is favorable.

Charles Wissler, Chillicothe, a close friend of the Woodrows' is in Chillicothe hospital suffering from fractures of both bones in the lower left arm and a bad cut over the eye which may result in the loss of the eye.

The accident occurred near Nash on the Chillicothe-pk when the driver of a Ford car is said to have stepped in the highway forcing Leo Finkler of Bellevue to pull on his brakes, causing him to skid onto the path of the Woodrow car going north. The impact was terrific. The right side of the Woodrow car was struck, the doors torn off and Mrs. Woodrow thrown to the pavement where the car fell on her. Mr. Woodrow was badly crushed by the impact and was conscious only a few minutes between the time of the accident and his death.

His body was taken to Chillicothe where funeral arrangements are being made.

CITY DECORATING RECEIVES PRAISE

Circleville again receives the plaudits of out-of-town persons for its excellent Christmas decorating. Mr. and Mrs. George Wise of Cleveland motored to the home of Mrs. Wise's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Children Not for Sale

Mrs. Helen Patrick, with her two sons, Edward (left) and Peyton, over whose custody she is engaged in a court battle with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anness, wealthy New York couple. Mrs. Patrick declared the Annesses offered her $1,000,000 for the custody of the children, which she refused.

WELL KNOWN OHIOAN DIES

Norman Shaw, Here Numerous Times, Victim of Auto Accident Saturday.

Many of his friends in the city and county will attend the funeral services for Norman Shaw, 41, of Columbus, associate editor of the Ohio Farmer, who died Saturday night in Bellevue city hospital from injuries suffered earlier in the afternoon when the auto in which he was riding with Perry L. Green, state director of agriculture, collided with a bus near Bellevue. Rites will be held at 11 a. m. Tuesday in the Schoedinger chapel, State and Fifth-sts, Columbus.

Mr. Shaw was well known in Pickaway-co to all farmers who are associated with the Pickaway-co farm bureau, as he has appeared on the programs here on numerous occasions.

His last appearance here was in October when he was present at the opening of the new stock yards at the Pickaway-co Cooperative Livestock Association. He was very well liked by the farmers in the county, and was mentioned for the position of director of agriculture under the administration of Governor-Elect White.

GLEE CLUB OFF ON LONG TOUR

The men's glee club of Wooster College, which appears here on Jan. 6 at the Presbyterian church, left Monday for a 10-day tour which will end in this city. Thirty men are members of the glee club, including Carl S. Toensmeier, son of Rev. and Mrs. E. S. Toensmeier. The schedule takes the glee club to Lima, South Bend, Ind., Chicago, Wabash, Ind., Anderson, Ind., Frankfort, Ind., Indianapolis, Ind., on Jan 5 and here on Jan. 6. Prof. George Graham, instructor of voice at the Wooster College Conservatory of music, is director of the club.

Child Saved By Mother

Real example of true heroism was shown at the Norfolk & Western railroad crossing on S. Court-st. Sunday afternoon, when a mother gave up her life for one of her young.

A stray cat and kitten, which were lost from a track on S. Court-st Sunday morning, were wandering north on the thoroughfare when they came to the railroad. The kitten, young and adventurous, went onto the track. A locomotive was moving toward the crossing.

When the mother saw her only possession in danger of death, she leaped in the air and landed on the track in time to push her kitten out of danger. But alas, she was caught by her two front feet under the engine, and well the on-lookers know the rest.

SUIT, CHARGING COLLUSION, PUT IN OHIO COURT

Stockholder Asks Reversal of Abandonment of Scioto Valley Lines.

BANK IS NAMED

Many Charges Are Made To Supreme Court.

Possibility of any action to have traction car rails removed in this city in the near future was given a set back late Saturday when Smith W. Bennett, attorney for Alex W. Krum, trustee under the will of Albert H. Seibert, deceased, owner of $1,500 worth of $1,400,000 bonds issued under the trust indenture, filed suit against the Scioto Valley Traction Co. in Ohio supreme court asking that the abandonment order be reversed on grounds that the Huntington National Bank, Columbus, as trustee, and the Scioto Valley Railway & Power Co., were in collusion to re-invest trust property. Bennett charges this was not authorized by the terms of the indenture and that to this end the trustees advised the public utilities commission of the state to grant the company's request for abandonment.

JOHNSON HERE

The case will probably be in the courts for a length of time and it is certain that while it is pending there will be no work done to remedy the situation the abandoned tracks leave in this city. R. T. Johnson, president of the Scioto Valley Co., reported to a committee of city officials last week that he would study the problem but would not the outcome of his study will be depends largely on this suit.

In presenting the case to the supreme court, Bennett cited many objections to the commission's order of abandonment which he terms "unlawful and unreasonable."

That the Huntington National Bank as trustee "had funds on hand for preserving and rehabilitating the mortgaged property" but failed to avail itself of the funds.

ORGANIZED BUS

That the bank "organized The Scioto Valley Service Co., an interurban bus company," "or had knowledge of its organization and that the personnel of the bus company's officers were the same as of the railway company."

That the bank "sought to get instructions of bondholders in the railway company to authorize investment of their funds in a bus company and then not having obtained the authority proceeded for a constructive program both for the immediate future and for a 10-year period, comprises Julius F. Stone of Columbus, chairman; A. E. Anderson, of Cincinnati; Dudley S. Blossom, of Cleveland; Grove Patterson, of Toledo and Harry McLaughlin, of Cleveland.

RUMOR JOFFRE HAS PARALYSIS

French War Marshal Still Holds Own: Crowds Visit His Home.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—Although official communiques issued from the bed of Marshal Joseph Joffre declared he had passed through the night "without incident," current reports in the capital today insisted he sustained a partial stroke of paralysis.

The report could not be confirmed.

Louis Barthou, French war minister and one of the few allowed at his old friend's bedside, said in leaving the sick chamber at the hospital at noon today:

"The marshal's power of resistance is remarkable. He is still lucid though unable to articulate."

Long lines of distinguished visitors continued to file in and out of the reception room at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wise of Cleveland motored to the home of Mrs. Wise's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Puffinberger near Williamsport, and upon arriving there remarked that Circleville's holiday decorations were the finest they saw in their trip through the state.

They passed through Medina, Wooster, Loudenville, Mt. Vernon, Westerville and Columbus.

13-YEAR-OLD ARRESTED FOR TAKING PURSE

Williamsport Boy Being Tried In Juvenile Court On Charge.

VALUED AT $25

Charge Filed By Miss Nellie Nessel.

Garrison Irwin, aged 13, of Williamsport, was being tried in juvenile court Monday on a charge of stealing a purse and articles included in it valued at $25. The charge was filed by Miss Nellie Nessel of Williamsport.

Miss Nessel charges that on May 3, 1930, she took young Irwin from Atlanta to Williamsport in her car and that the purse was on the front seat of the car. When they arrived in Williamsport, Miss Nessel went into the post-office. When she came out, she says, Irwin was out of the car. She missed the purse when she arrived home.

L. M. Brown, probation officer investigated the case and the following Tuesday young Irwin was taken to a hospital. The case has been continued until now.

George Adkins is attorney for the defendant, and E. L. Crist, prosecutor represents the state. A number of witnesses were called.

TEETS IS HELD

George Teets is in city jail pending hearing before Mayor B. T. Hedges on a charge of intoxication. He was found by members of the police department Sunday evening on Western-ave. He will be arraigned Monday at 7 p. m.

DAVIS IN PEN

Chester A. Davis, Cincinnati, who was sentenced to serve one to fifteen years in the Ohio Penitentiary for theft at the T. C. Gooley store in New Holland by Judge J. W. Adkins, was taken to that institution Monday morning by Deputy Sheriff John Ward to begin his term.

FRIEND IS FREED

Elmer Friend, who has been held in the county jail the past few days, on a charge of investigation has been released.

William "Beanie" Teets is being held in the county jail to answer to a charge of non-support filed by his wife. He will probably be arraigned in justice of peace court sometime Monday.

STUDENTS TO SING AT STATE MEETING

A group of students of Circleville high school under the instruction of Miss Helen K. Wittich, supervisor of music in Circleville school, were in Columbus Monday and will represent the local high school in the All-State Chorus comprised of over 300 voices. They will entertain the 2,500 delegates who are attending the meeting of the Ohio Educational Association held at the Deshler-Wallick in Columbus. Supt. J. O. Eagleson and A. A. White of this city, are delegate and alternate respectively from the city schools.

WELL KNOWN OHIOAN DIES

Norman Shaw, Here Numerous Times, Victim of Auto Accident Saturday.

Many of his friends in the city and county will attend the funeral services for Norman E. Shaw, 54, of Columbus, associate editor of the Ohio Farmer, who died Saturday night in Bellevue city hospital from injuries suffered earlier in the afternoon when the auto in which he was riding with Perry L. Green, state director of agriculture, collided with a bus near Bellevue. Rites will be held at 11 a. m. Tuesday in the Schoedinger chapel, State and Fifth-sts, Columbus.

Mr. Shaw was well known in Pickaway-co to all farmers who are associated with the Pickaway-co farm bureau, as he has appeared on the programs here on numerous occasions. His last appearance here was in October when he was present at the opening of the new stock yards at the Pickaway-co Cooperative Livestock Association. He was very well liked by the farmers in the county, and was mentioned for the position of director of agriculture under the administration of Governor-Elect White.

GLEE CLUB OFF ON LONG TOUR

The men's glee club of Wooster College, which appears here on Jan. 6 at the Presbyterian church, left Monday for a 10-day tour which will end in this city. Thirty men are members of the glee club, including Carl S. Toensmeier, son of Rev. and Mrs. E. S. Toensmeier. The schedule takes the glee club to Lima, South Bend, Ind., Chicago, Wabash, Ind., Anderson, Ind., Frankfort, Ind., Indianapolis, Ind., on Jan 5 and here on Jan. 6. Prof. George Graham, instructor of voice at the Wooster College Conservatory of music, is director of the club.

Child Saved By Mother

Real example of true heroism was shown at the Norfolk & Western railroad crossing on S. Court-st Sunday afternoon, when a mother gave up her life for one of her young.

A stray cat and kitten, which were lost from a truck on S. Court-st Sunday morning, were wandering north on the thoroughfare when they came to the railroad. The kitten, young and adventuresome, went onto the track. A locomotive was moving toward the crossing.

When the mother saw her only possession in danger of death, she leaped in the air and landed on the track in time to push her kitten out of danger. But alas, she was caught by her two front feet under the engine, and—well the on-lookers know the rest.

SUIT, CHARGING COLLUSION, PUT IN OHIO COURT

Stockholder Asks Reversal of Abandonment of Scioto Valley Lines.

BANK IS NAMED

Many Charges Are Made To Supreme Court.

Possibility of any action to have traction car rails removed in this city in the near future was given a set back late Saturday when Smith W. Bennett, attorney for Alex W. Krum, trustee under the will of Albert H. Seibert, deceased, owner of $1,500 worth of $1,400,000 bonds issued under the trust indenture, filed suit against the Scioto Valley Traction Co. in Ohio supreme court asking that the abandonment order be reversed on grounds that the Huntington National Bank, Columbus, as trustee, and the Scioto Valley Railway & Power Co., were in a collusion to re-invest trust property. Bennett charges this was not authorized by the terms of the indenture and that to this end the trustees advised the public utilities commission of the state to grant the company's request for abandonment.

The case will probably be in the courts for a length of time and it is certain that while it is pending there will be no work done to remedy the situation the abandoned tracks leave in this city. R. T. Johnson, president of the Scioto Valley Co., reported to a committee of city officials last week that he will study the problem but what the outcome of his study will be depends largely on this suit.

In presenting the case to the supreme court, Bennett cited many objections to the commission's order of abandonment which he terms "unlawful and unreasonable."

That the Huntington National Bank as trustee "had funds on hand for preserving and rehabilitating the mortgaged property" but failed to avail itself of the funds.

ORGANIZED BUS

That the bank organized The Scioto Valley Service Co., an inter-urban bus company, "or had knowledge of its organization and that the personnel of the bus company's officers were the same as of the railway company."

That the bank "sought to get instructions of bondholders in the railway company to authorize investment of their funds in a bus company and then not having obtained the authority proceeded without their authority to make sale of the mortgaged property."

That the bank "concur in abandonment of railway service and advised the commission to grant the order of abandonment of 70 miles of track with equipment. The objections, as listed further, are:

"It failed to conserve the mortgage property for the bondholders. "It colluded with the bus company in the purchase of the voting stock of the railway company so as to control corporate action of the railway company as to abandoning its mortgaged property.

AGREED TO SALE

"It agreed to the sale of the mortgaged property at private sale to one of its own directors.

"It permitted the property to be dismantled, destroyed and taken beyond the jurisdiction of the court.

WELFARE MEN PLAN PROGRAM

Many Recommendations Made To Cooper By His Advisory Commission.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 29.—A program designed to place Ohio in a position where no citizen of state or nation can regard it as being "remiss in its humanitarian responsibility" was outlined in a report submitted to Governor Myers Y. Cooper today by the welfare advisory commission.

The report contains numerous recommendations, among them one which would place the state welfare department under the jurisdiction of a five-membered board of public welfare serving without salary. The recommendations, it was said, are intended to be incorporated in a program of expansion of the welfare department and of rehabilitation and enlargement of its physical plant within the next 10 years.

The commission, which was selected last spring following the Ohio penitentiary holocaust to study the welfare situation in Ohio and to conduct such investigations as would enable it to make intelligent recommendations for a constructive program both for the immediate future and for a 10-year period, comprises Julius F. Stone of Columbus, chairman; A. E. Anderson, of Cincinnati; Dudley S. Blossom, of Cleveland; Grove Patterson, of Toledo and Harry McLaughlin, of Cleveland.

RUMOR JOFFRE HAS PARALYSIS

French War Marshal Still Holds Own; Crowds Visit His Home.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—Although official communiques issued from the bed of Marshal Joseph Joffre declared he had passed through the night "without incident," current reports in the capital today insisted he sustained a partial stroke of paralysis.

The report could not be confirmed. Louis Barthou, French war minister and one of the few allowed at his old friend's bedside, said in leaving the sick chamber at the hospital at noon today: "The marshal's power of resistance is remarkable. He is still lucid though unable to articulate."

Long lines of distinguished visitors continued to file in and out of the reception room at the hospital.

COUNTY NURSE GIVEN HONOR

Miss Helen Bartholomew, county health nurse, has been elected vice-president of the newly-organized Nurses' division of the Central Ohio Society of Sanitarians. Other officers named were Miss Dorothea Gaut, Washington C. H., president, and Miss Pauline Baker, Madison-co, secretary.

DECEMBER PAYMENT OF TAX SHOWS NO CASH SHORTAGE

By Robert S. Thornburgh
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Judging the results of the Dec. payment of income and corporation taxes, there was no particular shortage of cash among the 2,500,000 individuals and approximately 280,000 corporations which had taxable income in 1929.

Treasury figures available indicated the collection from that source this month probably would exceed $485,000,000, a loss of approximately $20,000,000 from last year, and that payment for the first half of the fiscal year would pass $1,090,000,000.

Because of business reverses during this year and general unemployment with reduced production of industries, it had been feared in some circles that many taxpayers would be unable to meet the last installment payment of the tax on their 1929 incomes. This proved, according to the collection, to have been a pessimistic view and indicated that conditions among those who pay income taxes are not as serious as expected.

The large payment in Dec. will give the government at least a half-year substantial revenue, although there will be losses of about $98,000,000 in customs receipts and approximately $23,000,000 in miscellaneous internal revenue for the six months ending with the month. The income tax loss will be about $80,000,000 which was anticipated as a result of the one percent reduction in rates applicable to income if 1929.

The total income loss for the six months will be about $29,000,000. Figures available today indicated the increase in ordinary government expenditures for the half year would be about $100,000,000. Of that more than $70,000,000 is accounted for by the federal farm board's expenditures. The increase of $53,000,000 in expenses of operating the various government departments and establishments was offset by a reduction of $54,000,000 in interest charges and in refunds of internal revenue receipts. There was a $20,000,000 increase in the postal deficit and other minor changes in expenditure.

The reduction of the public debt for the half year will not be large, amounting to approximately $153,000,000, placing the outstanding debt at approximately $16,032,273,000 at the close of the year. New issues during the half year amounted to $2,146,422,000 and retirements $2,299,458,000. Operations in the public debt will be heavy during the last half of the year. The total reduction will be more than $400,000,000, including the sinking fund and the principal payment on the foreign debts.

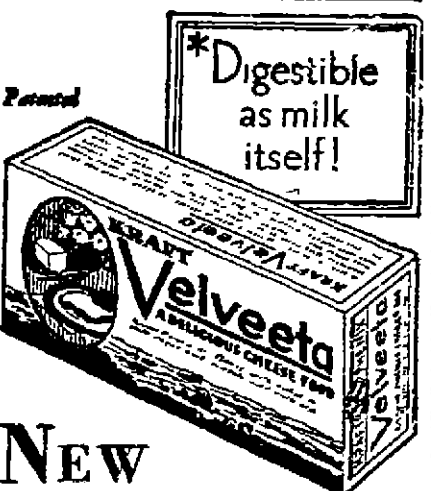

During the first six months of the year $65,000,000 has been placed in the sinking fund. During the same period last year $274,514,000 was placed in this fund. In the 1931 fiscal year the government could not obtain government securities for the sinking fund at less than par, was the case during 1930. Therefore it will await the refunding of the more than $1,000,000,000 in treasury notes March 15, to make up the sinking fund portfolio.

$25,000 RANSOM PLOT IS AIRED

KANSAS CITY.—A plot to extort $25,000 from R. A. Long, millionaire lumberman, was exposed with the arrest of Charles Leonard Duncan, 23, and his subsequent confession.

Two threatening letters were received by Long demanding that he leave the money at a designated spot near his home here.

A detective posing as Long drove to the spot in Long's Rolls Royce and tossed a package from the car. When Duncan picked up the package and hurried away detectives in another car arrested him. Duncan today blamed his action on "a desire to spend money."

DIVISION OF PLANT
INDUSTRY

Ohio is again in good repute with other States in its inspection of nursery stock in its whole range of activity. The desirability of much higher educational requirements on the part of employee who care for this very highly specialized work should be given with the idea of the granting of appropriations sufficient to care for the increased salary schedules demanded by those higher qualifications, says Director Perry L. Green. No person should be employed as inspector in this Division who has not had a most thorough scientific training.

There is also much need that this Division keep constantly and persistently on the lookout for diseases which appear to be more or less prevalent in Ohio which will work extreme havoc, particularly upon our elms and other forest trees. With the increased use of the elm and consequently the growing of the same by our nurseries, these various diseases apparently are becoming somewhat spread.

A great effort has been made to safeguard the producers against their seed and against the sale of seed of unknown low germination possibilities. The work of the seed laboratories has amply Game New Year's Night Expected To Furnish Sensational Basketball.

Every basketball game in which the C. A. C. has taken part this year has been sensational. The first game was a 25-20 defeat at the hands of the Buffalo Lincolns; the next was a victory over the Lancaster Hocking Glass team and for the bigger part of the game the score was close, although the Club got hot late in the third period and continued through the fourth; the third contest was a defeat at the hands of the Seneca Indians, 33-30, after a real scrap in which the Club led the greater part of the time. In the game at Columbus last Sunday when the Club trailed through part of the contest they came from behind in the final period to drub the Berney Bond outfit.

The most recent game, that of Christmas night, against Curley Griffin's Bliss College outfit, was the most sensational of the bunch with the Club winning in the last 20 seconds when a field goal by Eve Merriman gave them a 23-22 margin.

If advance notices mean anything, the game New Year's night will be the toughest the Club has played this year. The Federal Glass team, perfectly outfitted,

Major League Ball Player Charged With Carrying Pair of Knuckles.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 28.—C. Arthur "Whitman" Shires, well known Chicago and Washington major league ball player and more lately a figure on Hollywood's motion picture lots, was arrested today after making a disturbance in the police station. Police Sergeant G. C. Town started to hock the first baseman on a charge of intoxication, but on searching Shires' trunk he found him to be carrying a pair of brass knuckles which is a violation of a state law forbidding a deadly weapon act of California. The charge was changed when the woman was found. Shires' bride of a few weeks was notified and she set out in an effort to procure bail for her husband. Shires was still in jail at an early hour today.

The Monarch girls defeated the Royal Babes of Columbus, 16-8, in another good game.

The Monarch team issued a challenge to the Emory Club and the flying clouds to be played any time and any place.

EASTERN GRID SEASON ENDS

Southern Stars Edge North, 7-6, in Game at Ebbets Field, Sunday.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The eastern football season, extended past its usual time in the name of charity, today was closed with the victory achieved by Southern Stars over a picked northern combination by a score of 7 to 6. Only 1,200 fans braved the frigid weather to witness the game at Ebbets field.

Speer of Georgia Tech, and Bodine, Tulsa, played great games in the line for the southerners. They were continually smashing up the running plays of the north which broke out of a spinner.

Holland, of Tulane, played the game of the day at end, while Flanagan, Carnegie Tech end performed almost as well for the southerners. Brant of Tennessee, leading end of the north line, received a dislocated shoulder early in the game and was forced out of action. This was the only injury, remarkable in view of the icy condition of the field.

The game was scoreless at the half. Davidson of Georgia in the third took the ball from kick formation, and while the north linemen were sliding to reach the opponent, Holland, south right end, slipped down the field, out to the outside and took a pass that netted forty yards.

Davidson then hit right tackle, cut back to his left and placed the ball in position for a score. Davidson sent a pass into the arms of Hagner, who sped across the goal for the only score of the game Davidson added the point.

ROCKNE TALKS OF COACH JOB

Says He Will Boss Athletics Until He Can't Keep Pace.

ROCHESTER, Minn., Dec. 29.—"So long as college football wants me and as long as I think I have the ability to keep pace with the present day college football I will continue to coach."

Thus did Knute F. Rockne, director of athletics and head football coach at the University of Notre Dame, give his answer today to rumors that he is about to step aside as football coach at Notre Dame.

The glideron wizard plans to leave Mayo clinic next Wednesday for South Bend, Ind., where he will resume his duties as director of athletics at Notre Dame.

It was learned that he had submitted to a minor operation here last week on the advice of his medical advisor, Dr. J. C. Barber, a member of the clinic staff. The operation proved successful, according to the doctor.

Rockne admitted that he is feeling well, but says he is a little tired after the football season just completed. That is natural, he said, for a man who has directed a football team through a schedule of the magnitude undertaken by Notre Dame last fall.

A foot and his money are soon married.

STATE AND HIGHWAY FORCES GO BEHIND BROAD PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The importance which highway construction has assumed as one of the nation's greatest industries has emphasized the need for a better understanding on the part of the public as to the official channels through which road building is advanced. This is the view taken by Henry H. Blood, chairman of the State Highway Commission of Utah and president of the American Association of State Highway Officials. Mr. Blood is now in Washington at the request of Colonel Arthur Wood, chairman of President's Hoover's Emergency Committee for Employment, to aid in coordinating forces for more employment.

"We have recently concluded our regular annual session at Pittsburgh," said Mr. Blood, "and we have agreed upon policies by which we are to be governed during the coming year. First, we have a program for increased Federal aid as an emergency employment measure and we are working intensively with President Hoover's Committee, headed by Colonel Arthur Woods. Another part of our program is to have changed, if possible, the present limitations of $15,000 per mile on Federal participation in highway construction so that Secretary of Agriculture may be authorized to approve projects at 50 per cent of the cost of construction.

"Then there is at the present time considerable agitation for the improvement of secondary roads, in some cases classed as farm-to-market roads, with a resultant demand for diversion of state funds now available for state systems. We are opposed to the diversion of these funds until the primary routes have reached a more advanced stage of improvement. Our position is that the major portion of state funds should be used entirely to expedite work on state systems, and in keeping with our traffic demand. "One of our aims also is to secure if possible a great uniformity in gasoline taxes and motor license fees. We stand for the restriction of toll bridges in the interest of the public, and also for roadside beautification as a means of reducing highway maintenance cost by checking erosion and preventing slides. "Our organization," said Mr. Blood, "is composed of public officials charged with the building and administration of highways in various states and any pronounced movement from this official body which cooperates closely with Bureau of Public Roads, may be relied upon as expressing the facts concerning state activities in the great project of road building."

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble, and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after cold or flu. Game New Year's Night Expected To Furnish Sensational Basketball.

Every basketball game in which the C. A. C. has taken part this year has been sensational. The first game was a 25-20 defeat at the hands of the Buffalo Lincolns, the next was a victory over the Lancaster Hocking Glass team and for the bigger part of the game the score was close, although the Club got hot late in the third period and continued through the fourth; the third contest was a defeat at the hands of the Seneca Indians, 33-30, after a real scrap in which the Club led the greater part of the time. In the game at Columbus last Sunday when the Club trailed through part of the contest they came from behind in the final period to drub the Berney Boid outfit.

The most recent game, that of Christmas night, against Curley Griffin's Bliss College outfit, was the most sensational of the bunch with the Club winning in the last 20 seconds when a field goal by Eve Merriman gave them a 23-22 margin.

If advance notices mean anything, the game New Year's night will be the toughest the Club has played this year. The Federal Glass team, perfectly outfitted,

SHIRES HELD IN JAIL ROW

Major League Ball Player Charged With Carrying Pair of Knuckles.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 22.—C. Arthur "Whitman" Shires, well known Chicago and Washington major league ball player and more lately a figure on Hollywood's motion picture lots, was arrested today after making a disturbance in the police station.

Police Sergeant G. C. Towns started to book the first baseman on a charge of intoxication, but on searching Shires' pockets he found him to be carrying a pair of brass knuckles which is a violation of a state law.

Shires' bride of a few weeks was notified and she set out to an effect to secure bail for her husband. Shires was still in jail at an early hour today.

THANKS GIVEN

Much praise is given to Edward Gust by the Lutheran church congregation for his speed in installing a new boiler in the church so that services could be held there Christmas morning. The boiler exploded on Sunday before Christmas and Gust had a new boiler in service for 6 o'clock services Christmas morning.

MONARCHS LOSE TO PORTSMOUTH

The Monarch Athletic Club boys lost a hard-fought contest to the Portsmouth Panthers at the Army gym here last Friday night after leading throughout three periods. The score was 20-26.

Failure to play safe after they obtained a lead in the third period caused the defeat.

The game was fast from the start with long range basket shooting playing a big part in the outcome.

The Monarch girls defeated the Royal Babes of Columbus, 18-8, in another good game.

The Monarch team issued a challenge to the Emory Club and the flying clouds to be played any time and any place.

EASTERN GRID SEASON ENDS

Southern Stars Edge North, 7-6, in Game at Ebbets Field, Sunday.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The eastern football season, extended past its usual time in the name of clarity, today was closed with the victory achieved by Southern Stars over a picked northern combination by a score of 7 to 6. Only 1,200 fans braved the frigid weather to witness the game at Ebbets field.

Speer of Georgia Tech, and Bodenger, Tulsa, played great games in the line for the southerners. They were continually smashing up the running plays of the north which broke out of a spinner.

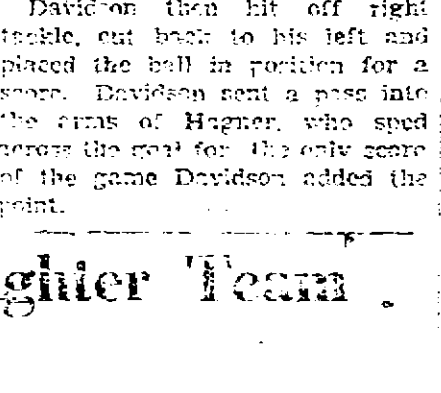

Holland, of Tulane, played the game of the day at end, while Flanagan, Carnegie Tech, performed almost as well for the northerners. Brant of Tennessee, leading end of the south last year, received a dislocated shoulder early in the game and was forced out of action. This was the only injury, remarkable in view of the icy condition of the field.

The game was scoreless at the half. Davidson of Georgia in the third took the ball from kick formation, and while the north linemen were sliding to reach the opponent, Holland, south right end, slipped down the field, out to the outside and took a pass that netted forty yards.

Davidson then hit off right tackle, cut back to his left and placed the ball in position for a score. Davidson sent a pass into the arms of Wagner, who sped across the goal for the only score of the game Davidson added the point.

A foul and his money are soon married.

STATE AND HIGHWAY FORCES GO BEHIND BROAD PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The importance which highway construction has assumed as one of the nation's greatest industries has emphasized the need for a better understanding on the part of the public as to the official channels through which road building is advanced. This is the view taken by Henry H. Blood, chairman of the State Highway Commission of Utah and president of the American Association of State Highway Officials. Mr. Blood is now in Washington at the request of Colonel Arthur Wood, chairman of President Hoover's Emergency Committee for Employment, to aid in coordinating forces for more employment.

"We have recently concluded our regular annual session at Pittsburgh," said Mr. Blood, "and we have agreed upon policies by which we are to be governed during the coming year. First, we have a program for increased Federal aid as an emergency employment measure and we are working intensively with President Hoover's Committee, headed by Colonel Arthur Wood.

"Another part of our program is to have changed, if possible, the present limitations of $15,000 payable on Federal participation in highway construction so that Secretary of Agriculture may be authorized to approve projects at 50 per cent of the cost of construction.

"Then there is at the present time considerable agitation for the improvement of secondary roads, in some cases classed as farm-to-market roads, with a resultant demand for diversion of state funds now available for state systems. We are opposed to the diversion of these funds until the primary routes have reached a more advanced stage of improvement. Our position is that the major portion of state funds should be used entirely to expedite work on state systems, and in keeping with for traffic demand.

"One of our aims also is to cure if possible a great uniform in gasoline taxes and motor license fees. We stand for the restriction of toll bridges in the interest of the public, and also for road beautification as a means of reducing highway maintenance costs by checking erosion and preventing slides.

"Our organization," said Blood, "is composed of officials charged with the planning and administration of highway systems and any pronouncement from this official body which cooperates closely with Bureau of Public Roads, may be relied upon as expressing the facts concerning state activities the great project of road building."

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germ.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after a cold or flu. Money refunded, if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist for it.

DECEMBER PAYMENT OF TAX SHOWS NO CASH SHORTAGE

By Robert S. Thornburgh
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Judging the results of the Dec. payment of income and corporation taxes, there was no particular shortage of cash among the 2,500,000 individuals and approximately 260,000 corporations which had taxable income in 1929.

Treasury figures available indicated the collection from that source this month probably would exceed $485,000,000, a loss of approximately $20,000,000 from last year, and that payment for the first half of the fiscal year would pass $1,090,000,000.

Because of business reverses during this year and general unemployment with reduced production of industries, it had been feared in some circles that many taxpayers would be unable to meet the last installment payment of the tax on their 1929 incomes. This proved, according to the collection, to have been a pessimistic view and indicated that conditions among those who pay income taxes are not as serious as expected.

The large payment in Dec. will give the government at least a half-year substantial revenue, al-

The total income loss for the six months will be about $29,000,000.

Figures available today indicated the increase in ordinary government expenditures for the half year would be about $100,000,000. Of that more than $70,000,000 is accounted for by the federal farm board's expenditures. The increase of $53,000,000 in expenses of operating the various government departments and establishments was offset by a reduction of $54,000,000 in interest charges and in refunds of internal revenue receipts. There was a $20,000,000 increase in the postal deficit and other minor changes in expenditure.

The reduction of the public debt for the half year will not be large, amounting to approximately $153,000,000, placing the outstanding debt at approximately $16,032,273,000 at the close of the year. New issues during the half year amounted to $2,146,422,000 and retirements $2,299,458,000. Operations in the public debt will be heavy during the last half of the year. The total reduction will be more than $400,000,000, including the sinking fund and the principal payment on the foreign debts.

During the first six months of the year $65,000,000 has been placed in the sinking fund. During the same period last year $274,514,000 was placed in this fund. In the 1931 fiscal year the government could not obtain government securities for the sinking fund at less than par, was the case during 1930. Therefore it will await the refunding of the more than $1,000,000,000 in treasury notes March 15, to make up the sinking fund portfolio.

DIVISION OF PLANT INDUSTRY

Ohio is again in good repute with other States in its inspection of nursery stock in its whole range of activity. The desirability of much higher educational requirements on the part of employee who care for this very highly specialized work should be given with the idea of the granting of appropriations sufficient to care for the increased salary schedules demanded by those higher qualifications, says Director Perry L. Green. No person should be employed as inspector in this Division who has not had a most thorough scientific training.

There is also much need that this Division keep constantly and persistently on the lookout for diseases which appear to be more or less prevalent in Ohio which will work extreme havoc, particularly upon our elms and other forest trees. With the increased use of the elm and consequently the growing of the same by our nurserymen, these various diseases apparently are becoming somewhat spread.

A great effort has been made to safeguard the producers against poor seed and against the sale of seed of unknown low germination possibilities. The work of the seed laboratories has almost

$25,000 RANSOM PLOT IS AIRED

KANSAS CITY.—A plot to extort $25,000 from R. A. Long, millionaire lumberman, was exposed with the arrest of Charles Leonard Duncan, 23, and his subsequent confession.

Two threatening letters were received by Long demanding that he leave the money at a designated spot near his home here.

A detective posing as Long drove to the spot in Long's Rolls Royce and tossed a package from the car. When Duncan picked up the package and hurried away detectives in another car arrested him.

Duncan today blamed his action on "a desire to spend money."

New Year Near

ON the threshold of a new year, some folk lament the lack of divination or prophecy the better they might know what the future has in store for them. Foolish folk they are, indeed. Under the Great Scheme of Existence nothing seems more correct than that mankind should not know the future as man can know the past.

The pleasant things might be pleasant to know in advance and so afford the satisfaction that goes with anticipation, but how about the unpleasant things? What of the sorrow, tragedy, failure and gloom that must inevitably be part of the best of 1931? To have advance knowledge of them, if by that knowledge they could be avoided, would be most helpful, but if they are inevitable and inescapable, then would come only that anguish that is the portion of the murderer who sits in his cell awaiting the day of execution.

And so it is best to look into the unknown reaches of the new year with as much complacency as possible, determined to lead a good life, to play the game squarely, to be as ready as possible for any emergency, to live without regret, to plan, safeguard and provide wisely.

Under the right slant at life, every year can be a good year. There may be sorrow and grief and set-back, but all these need not condemn the year or cast one down hopelessly. There is always that homely, almost frivolous philosophy that no matter how bad a thing may be it would be worse. There is always a silver lining to a dark cloud if it is sought earnestly enough.

Happily, people today, and least of all the American people, are not looking at 1931 through melancholy eyes. To every person save the neuroathetic the New Year is abloom with promise and aglow with great achievement. And so it can be made if every-body maintains that mental attitude.

The year 1930 could have been worse. Naturally 1931 is expected to be better. It can profit from the errors of 1930. It is blazing a new trail, but it has the markers of 1930 to guide it. It is not scarred or prejudiced. Like the robust infant it is pictured to be, 1931 starts with a fine spirit of optimism and all who are traveling with it ought to be just as sanguine of a happy New Year.

Earthworms

IT is not man who has made of earth a flowering paradise. It is the earthworm. Man enjoys what he has not provided, reaps where he has not sown.

Vegetation is what makes human life possible. Plants consume the nitrogen of the air, leaving the oxygen for man, replenishing the store of it for him.

But never could vegetation have survived upon the earth's crust if the earthworm had not been here, burrowing the ground, softening it, aerating it, enriching it. In an acre of soil, 10 tons of earth are disturbed by earthworms in a year.

What a wonderful function they perform! But it is pleasanter to be a human being than to be an earthworm.

We know the world at large, not the small compass of a new square feet.

Let us be assured of one thing. We are here for a purpose just as definite as that of the earth worm. It blindly follows instinct. We have been given minds, souls and awarded a choice of actions and careers.

The responsibility increases with the additional gifts.

We are not earthworms.

We have no right to accomplish less in proportion than they do. How many of us are accomplishing any more?

Safety in Rough Roads

IT may come to this, that in order to minimize reckless driving of automobiles it will be necessary to leave streets and roads in disrepair. Every stretch of smooth highway is regarded by a goodly proportion of motorists as an invitation to "step on the gas and see what she can do." At any rate, they "step on it." So often does "she" do the unexpected that smooth pavements sometimes appear to be menaces. But it is not the fault of the pavement. Then the public authorities have to step in, make a lot of arrests and

GIRL UNAFRAID BY GLADYS JOHNSON

Ken and Cecile quarrel over Cyril Underhill.

CHAPTER XXXII.
I was cruelly unexpected, that plunge of eyes into eyes. Confusion in Ardeth's mind. Ken... really Ken... and he was holding a baby.

Ken's first instinctive movement had been to leave. But he remained there looking at her.

"I didn't expect to see you, Ardeth. I was just passing. Just walking by."

"Won't you—come in?" The words seemed to come of their own volition.

They were in the store, still in that strained silence. The girl was leaning back against the counter. One hand was pressed hard over her throat where a little pulse fluttered.

"I was too tried to go down to the country today with Tom." She spoke with an apparent effort. "Yesterday was awfully busy. And there was the window to dress."

"I saw you," he answered, with the same unnatural calm. "And I thought of that first time I came in here. When you were in the window arranging the ivory elephants."

With a fluttering movement of her hands she said, "The baby, I've never seen him."

"I stole him to take him out," Ken explained. "I have an idea he doesn't like his nurse. You know, even when they're very young they have likes and dislikes. Sort of starched linen nurse she is; eye like a hawk. Rapacious eye, you know. I know the Colonel here doesn't like her."

The Colonel... Something pitifully appropriate in the nickname Ken had bestowed upon his son. Nothing round and rosy—nothing babylike about the infant, which looked awfully back at Ardeth. It was as though a little old man peered from behind the small features.

Phyllis Hawkins' words flashed back to the girl: "The nurse said she pretty nearly killed the poor little brat from the first... the boy never had a fair start..."

A frail little thing; bones like a macaroni. A cold undertone to the tiny face. The eyes pale blue, with a strange set stare—an unearthly stare, Ardeth found herself thinking.

Such a Mite.

The resentment she had known was swept away in a gush of pity. A little cry broke from her. "Such a little bit of thing! Let me—"

She had it in her arms, the baby's stare regarding her brooding face.

"The darling—" she said softly. Her fingertips lightly caressed the milky little face. "The pretty little fellow—"

With a pang it struck Ken that no one had ever before used that inappropriate term to the child. Something choked in his throat, and he spoke with an assumption of lightness.

"Well... the Colonel doesn't go in much for beauty. But he's bright as a dollar. I always manage to know how he feels."

That hurt the girl. Ken, lonely—trying in some clumsy way to make up to the unwelcome mite for the love it should have had as a child.

"We slipped out for a walk before the starched nurse could stop us. I could see by his eyes that the Colonel was bored. He likes to be with me. And, somehow, we came down this way. But I didn't dream of seeing you—"

"Where's Cecile?" She did not raise her eyes to his own. Ken seemed as young and helpless in that moment as the baby and the pull on her sympathy was dangerous.

Ken shrugged. "Coralie Gaines' house party. I can't get on with that woman, so, for the sake of peace, I stayed away."

An awkward little moment of silence. Then Ardeth found herself saying in a choked voice: "Would you... like to come back here and sit down?"

Sorrow's Marks.

They were in the back room. She found herself sitting on the couch holding the silent baby. Ken had taken the chair opposite. By the light which slanted on him through the one long window she saw his case of manner was merely a mask.

His face was white and his eyes were bleak. If she had changed in this last bitter year, so had he. Little left of the triumphant youth she had given her heart in that long ago Summer. Here was a man, disillusioned—suffering.

Ken's eyes went around the room, noticing the simple, comfortable furnishings. They came back to rest on her face and such sudden yearning flashed there that she spoke hastily.

"Tell me about yourself... your... your business."

"Did you know I'd left Mr. Parker's office? I'm in for myself."

At her nod he went on. "It wasn't that he wasn't considerate. He's been kind. But that was just it. I don't want kindness! I want to stand on my own! To own my own success! I've got to have something of my own!"

Something badgered in his voice. She looked swiftly up at him. His head was high—not the gay, confident lift of other days. Defiant. His eyes were angry, bewildered.

He suddenly swam in the mist of her own tears. Tears which she tried, in dismay, to check. She saw that he had risen. Was reaching for her.

"Oh... Ardeth... sweetheart..." A little cry halted him. A little crow from the baby. Hold in Ardeth's arms, he had been fascinated by the glitter of a tiny chain about her neck. His small wavering hand had at last captured it and a scatter of tiny pearls sprinkled the girl as it broke.

The accident startled them both back to themselves. Ken stooped, gathered the scattered beads.

"Really, it does not matter," Ardeth protested softly.

When Ken rose he was master of himself again. He made a desperate grasp after his self-possession.

"Have to get the Colonel home or the starched nurse will hang up both of us both thank you, shouldn't have done this, I know." A bleakness in that which pierced her heart.

"Apologize to the lady, you rascal, for plundering her jewelry!"

They were gone. The little shop was suddenly empty, with only the sunlight slanting in to fall on the mandarin coats and the bright feather fans.

Through the yellow silence Ardeth walked to the back room. She picked up the broken chain and let it drop slowly into a small velvet case.

She knew she would never mend it.

A few weeks later Ken entered Cecile's boudoir, his face pale with anger, lips nervously compressed.

Though it was the middle of the afternoon he found Cecile in the hands of her maid.

Marriage and motherhood had made little difference to Cecile's habits. Her beauty was still her chief concern. It was rather a startling apparition which greeted her husband's eyes today. Swathed in a sheet Cecile lay on the day bed and her face was an astonishing dark green.

At Ken's voice she opened her eyes and made frantic movements with her hands which the gaunt Swedish maid interpreted grudgingly.

"Mrs. Gleason is having a clay beauty mask, sir. If she talks she'll crack it."

"I'm sorry to interrupt at such a time, Cecile," Ken's voice was tight, "but it seems impossible to get a word with you at any other hour and I must speak with you in private."

With immobile face but blazing eyes Cecile parted her lips long enough to say furiously, "You'll have to wait. This must not be disturbed for an hour."

"An hour will be too late for my purpose," Ken replied firmly. "I've tried to see you all day. I must ask you to manage this."

A cry of warning from the maid. "Don't frown, Mrs. Gleason!"

At any other time it would have tickled Ken's sense of humor to watch Cecile trying to be angry with a serene face. She struggled up, wound in the sheet, and waved the maid away.

"Oh, all right! Go on out, Alma. I'll ring when I want you."

The woman went, resentment showing in every line of her broad back.

"Now," said Cecile, when they were alone, "perhaps you'll explain the reason for this intrusion."

Ken raised his brows. "Rather a strong word, isn't it? I intruded, as you call it, because you make it impossible for me to see you at any other time. One would think you deliberately tried to avoid me, Cecile. And I had to see you. I just learned that you invited Cyril Underhill to our dinner party tonight."

"Well?"

"You know I dislike the fellow."

"Is my future life to be guided by your likes and dislikes?" "That's not fair!" A hint of warmth creeping in despite Ken's effort to remain calm. "It isn't that I want to force my private tastes on you. But you know I dislike that fellow. A male gossip... a charlatan..."

A Matter of Opinion.

"That is your opinion. Others receive him. He was at Coralie Gaines' party."

Ken's face darkened. "You've only made his case worse in my eyes. Other people whom we know—and value—look, Mary Eastwood never invites him. You never see him at the Forsytes'."

Cecile forgot the injunction of her maid and the green clay split in a thousand cracks as she scowled.

"Those wash-outs! Do you think I care who they invite? Cyril wouldn't go to their dull parties anyway."

Ken struggled to keep his temper. "I'm asking you, Cecile—put it as a favor if you wish, to please not invite this fellow to the house. I've heard some of his remarks about women and I don't intend my wife shall be gossiped about."

Cecile's smile was ghastly. "Oh, you are giving orders?"

Ken flushed. "An order to protect my wife and my home from a scandalous fellow."

Again the white teeth flashed in the dark green mask.

"You are suddenly solicitous about your wife," she said softly, and there was the hiss of a cat in her voice. "Perhaps if you worried more about your own reputation it would be more to the point."

He regarded her with narrowed eyes. "What are you driving at?"

"You know." Still in the soft tone. "But I am not surprised to know that it startles you to learn that I do as well! Well... we understand each other, Ken. I'll speak even more clearly. I'll allow you so much leeway—that she hold her long white hands a short space apart. So-o-o much, Ken." She nodded her head.

"That is all. Therefore, you can see, as far as Cyril is concerned—he comes to the dinner tonight. And you will be pleasant to him."

The man's eyes were blazing. "I don't know what you're talking about. And if that fellow comes here—"

Theatres

AT THE GRAND

"Conspiracy," a spectacular mystery-melodrama produced by Radio Pictures, had its initial showing at the Grand Theatre Sunday.

Bessie Love heads the all-star cast of more than 20 featured players. Miss Love will be remembered for her sensational performances in some of the first talking pictures.

Ned Sparks, seen in many RKO pictures and noted for his comedy characterizations, plays a new surprising part in this picture. Cast as a wealthy, eccentric author whose hobby is the solving of current crimes, Sparks adds 40 years to his age. The result is a startling change in his appearance. It is said that even his most ardent admirers will have difficulty in recognizing him. Hugh Trevor cast as a young reporter, plays opposite Miss Love.

"Conspiracy" was directed by Christy Cabanne. It is his first directorial assignment for RKO. Walter Baker and Robert Emerson are the authors of the play and Beulah Marie Dix is credited with the screen play, continuity and dialogue.

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Whoopie" opened last night at the Cliftona Theatre with all the burst of splendor that would be anticipated from the news that Samuel Goldwyn and Florenz Ziegfeld were working together to produce a musical-comedy-spectacle on the talking color screen. All the lavishness implied in these geous scenes, the beautiful girls, the rib-splitting comedy from Eddie Cantor and his numerous assistants the fast pace and the splendid photography which make "Whoopie" what it is.

The plot of the picture is an adaptation of Owen Davis' grand farce, "The Nervous Wreck" and with its story of the imaginary invalid forced to be a he-man in order to get the heroine out of trouble and married to the right man. Eddie Cantor's portrayal of Henry Williams, the invalid in question, is a classic of comedy from one of the stages' greatest. Combined with the beauty of huge ensembles of hand-picked girls, fast, unflagging direction by Thornton Freeland, and breath-taking photography, the whole picture is the talking screen at its opulent best.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK by Edson R. White Shawnee, Okla.

That if you are in business and only an occasional advertiser, you should "stop and think" and do it now. Everybody should stop and think once in a while.

Now is the time to start telling the public about your business, not once in a while but all the while. Nobody else is going to do it for you.

If you don't advertise persistently and tell who you are, where you are and what you have for sale, few people will know you are in business. If you just advertise once in a while, few people will remember you are in business.

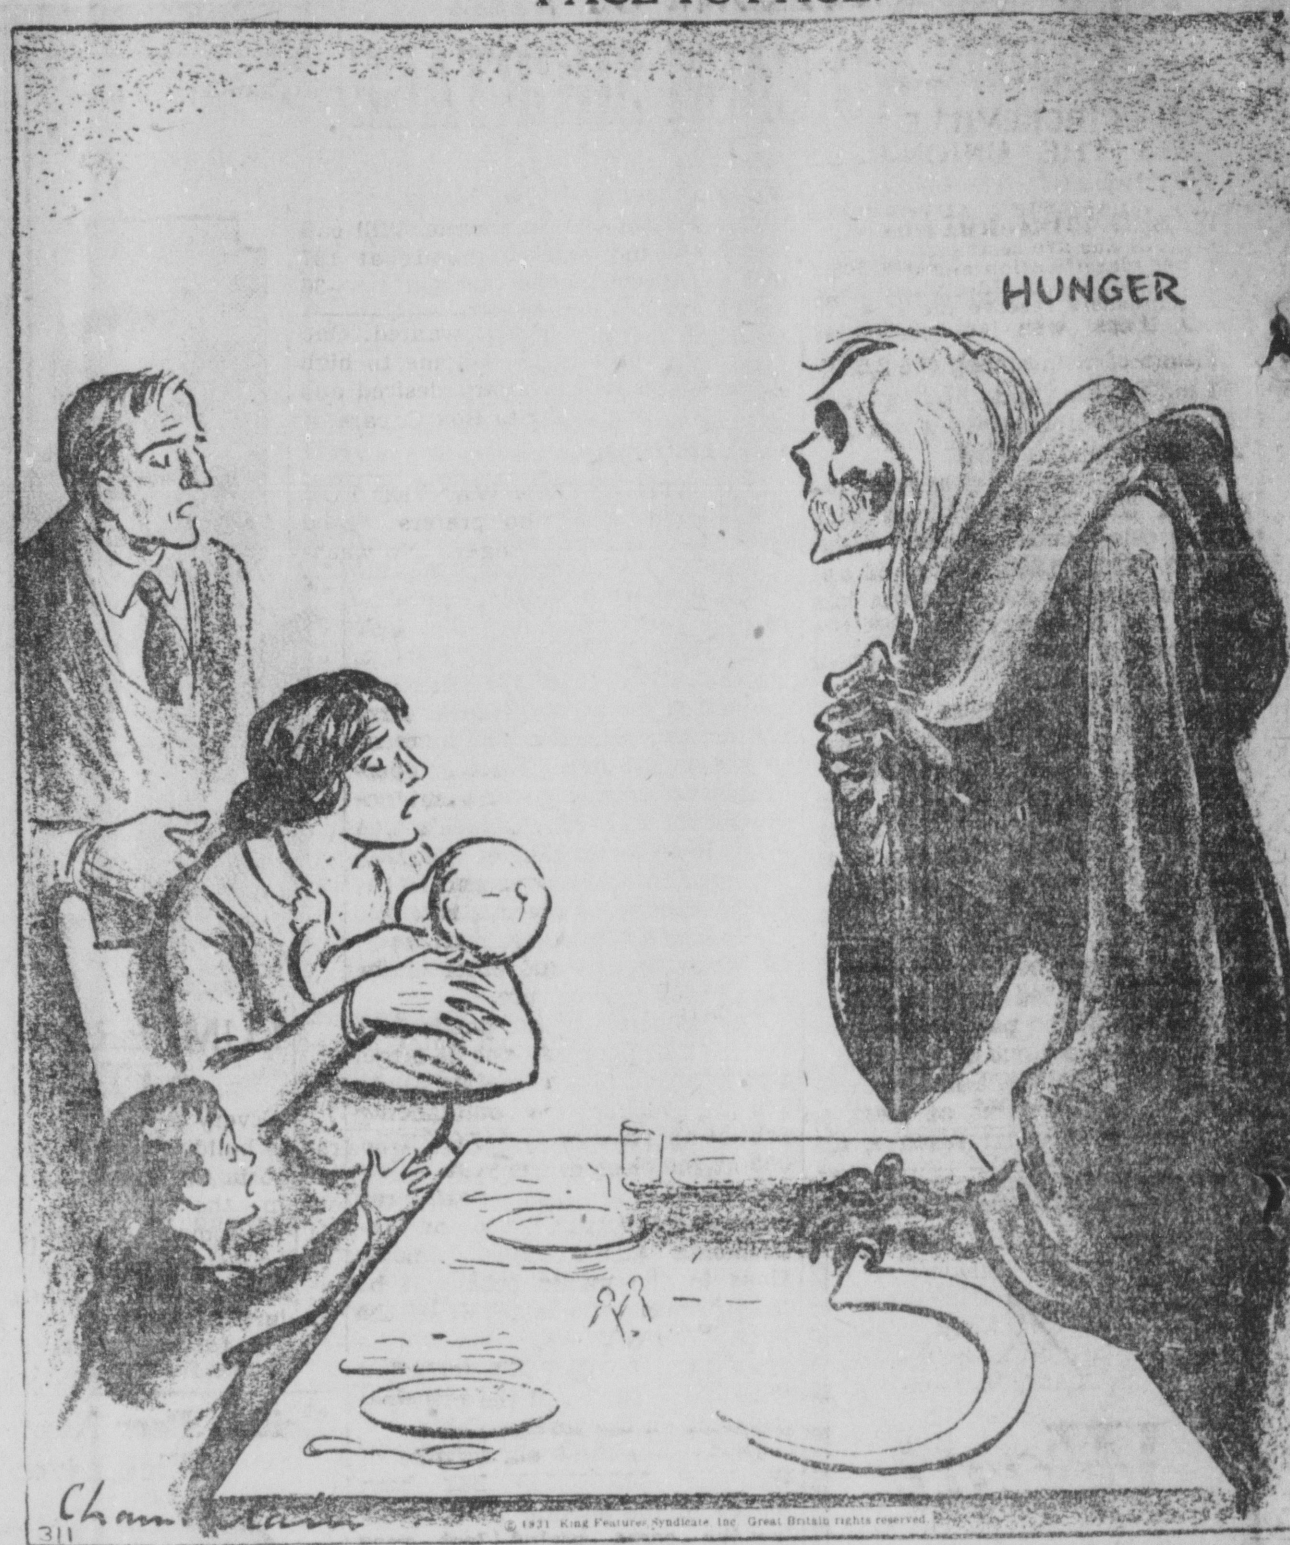

Today we are living in an age of advertising. Only those concerns who are persistent advertisers keep in the minds of the public and keep abreast of the times.

Now is the time to start continuous advertising. You should not wait for competition to force you to do so—you might be forced too late.

Success is achieved by those business concerns who combine quality, service and persistent advertising.

New Year Near

ON the threshold of a new year, some folk lament the lack of divination or prophecy the better they might know what the future has in store for them. Foolish folk they are, indeed. Under the Great Scheme of Existence nothing seems more correct than that mankind should not know the future as man can know the past.

The pleasant things might be pleasant to know in advance and so afford the satisfaction that goes with anticipation, but how about the unpleasant things? What of the sorrow, tragedy, failure and gloom that must inevitably be part of the bequests of 1931? To have advance knowledge of them, if by that knowledge they could be avoided, would be most helpful, but if they are inevitable and inescapable, then would come only that anguish that is the portion of the murderer who sits in his cell awaiting the day of execution.

And so it is best to look into the unknown reaches of the new year with as much complacency as possible, determined to lead a good life, to play the game squarely, to be as ready as possible for any emergency, to live without regret, to plan, safeguard and provide wisely.

Under the right slant at life, every year can be a good year. There may be sorrow and grief and setback, but all these need not condemn the year or cast one down hopelessly. There is always that homely, almost frivolous philosophy that no matter how bad a thing may be it would be worse. There is always a silver lining to a dark cloud if it is sought earnestly enough.

Happily, people today, and least of all the American people, are not looking at 1931 through melancholy eyes. To every person save the neurasthenic the New Year is abloom with promise and aglow with great achievement. And so it can be made if everybody maintains that mental attitude.

The year 1930 could have been worse. Naturally 1931 is expected to be better. It can profit from the errors of 1930. It is blazing a new trail, but it has the markers of 1930 to guide it. It is not scarred or prejudiced. Like the robust infant it is pictured to be, 1931 starts with a fine spirit of optimism and all who are traveling with it ought to be just as sanguine of a happy New Year.

Earthworms

IT is not man who has made of earth a flowering paradise. It is the earthworm.

Man enjoys what he has not provided, reaps where he has not sown.

Vegetation is what makes human life possible. Plants consume the nitrogen of the air, leaving the oxygen for man, replenishing the store of it for him.

But never could vegetation have survived upon the earth's crust if the earthworm had not been here, burrowing the ground, softening it, aerating it, enriching it. In an acre of soil, 10 tons of earth are disturbed by earthworms in a year.

What a wonderful function they perform!

But it is pleasant to be a human being than to be an earthworm.

We know the world at large, not the small compass of a new square foot.

Let us be assured of one thing. We are here for a purpose just as definite as that of the earthworm. It blindly follows instinct. We have been given minds, souls and awarded a choice of actions and careers.

The responsibility increases with the additional gifts.

We are not earthworms. We have no right to accomplish less in proportion than they do. How many of us are accomplishing any more?

Safety in Rough Roads

IT may come to this, that in order to minimize reckless driving of automobiles it will be necessary to leave streets and roads in disrepair. Every stretch of smooth highway is regarded by a goodly proportion of motorists as an invitation to "step on the gas and see what she can do." At any rate, they "step on it." So often does "she" do the unexpected that smooth pavements sometimes appear to be menaces. But it is not the fault of the pavement.

Then the public authorities have to step in, make a lot of arrests and stop the reckless drivers.

That last disconcerting preparation conference placed the emphasis on the preparedness instead of on the disarmament.

Stoicism is the ability to celebrate on New Year's eve with a letter in one's eye.

GIRL UNAFRAID BY GLADYS JOHNSON

Ken and Cecile quarrel over Cyril Underhill.

CHAPTER XXXII.

It was a cruelly unexpected, that plunge of eyes into eyes. Confusion in Ardeth's mind. Ken... really Ken... and he was holding a baby.

Ken's first instinctive movement had been to leave. But he remained there looking at her.

"I didn't expect to see you, Ardeth. I was just passing. Just walking by."

"Won't you—come in?" The words seemed to come of their own volition.

They were in the store, still in that strained silence. The girl was leaning back against the counter. One hand was pressed hard over her throat where a little pulse fluttered.

"I was too tired to go down to the country today with Tom." She spoke with an apparent effort.

"Yesterday was awfully busy. And there was the window to dress—"

"I saw you," he answered, with the same unnatural calm. "And I thought of that first time I came in here. When you were in the window arranging the ivory elephants."

With a fluttering movement of her hands she said, "The baby, I've never seen him."

"I stole him to take him out," Ken explained. "I have an idea he doesn't like his nurse. You know, even when they're very young they have likes and dislikes. Sort of starved linen nurse she is; eye like a hawk. Rapacious eye, you know. I know the Colonel here doesn't like her."

The Colonel... Something pitifully appropriate in the nickname Ken had bestowed upon his son. A cry broke from her. "Such a little bit of thing! Let me—"

She had it in her arms, the baby's stare regarding her brooding face.

"The darling—" she said softly. Her fingertips lightly caressed the milky little face. "The pretty little fellow—"

With a pang it struck Ken that no one had ever before used that inappropriate term to the child. Something choked in his throat, and he spoke with an assumption of lightness.

"Well... the Colonel doesn't go in much for beauty. But he's bright as a dollar. I always manage to know how he feels."

That hurt the girl. Ken, lonely—trying in some clumsy way to make up to the unwelcome mite for the love it should have had as a right.

"We slipped out for a walk before the starved nurse could stop us. I could see by his eyes that the Colonel was bored. He likes to be with me. And, somehow, we came down this way. But I didn't dream of seeing you."

"Where's Cecile?" She did not raise her eyes to his own. Ken seemed as young and helpless in that moment as the baby and the pull on her sympathy was dangerous.

Ken shrugged. "Coralie Gaines' house party. I can't get on with that woman, no, for the sake of peace, stayed away."

An awkward little moment of silence. Then Ardeth found her is a "trap" where roads are rough. The explanation is that motorists do not exceed the speed limit where doing so would shake their cars to pieces and upset their own stomachs.

Careful drivers who habitually respect the law and the safety of others will not be annoyed by official activities. But they have more than a casual interest in the ultimate results of the conjunction of smooth pavements and speed fiends. All motorists would suffer were rough roads made the rule because too many motorists cannot be trusted to use smooth pavements aright.

Public safety must be held above public convenience and comfort. Wherefore if misuse of smooth highways makes for unusual danger to the people, it would be reasonable to compel reduction of speed by making a serious pace impossible.

Mistake are what erasers were made for, and a new year with new number was made to cause the mistakes for which erasers were made.

Having learned by experience that fortifications do not repel an invader, France is fortifying another 200 miles of her frontier.

That last disconcerting preparation conference placed the emphasis on the preparedness instead of on the disarmament.

self saying in a choked voice: "Would you... like to come back here and sit down?"

Sorrow's Marks.

They were in the back room. She found herself sitting on the couch holding the silent baby. Ken had taken the chair opposite. By the light which slanted on him through the one long window she saw his face of manner was merely a mask. His face was white and his eyes were bleak. If she had changed in this last bitter year, so had he. Little left of the triumphant youth she had given her heart in that long ago Summer. Here was a man, disillusioned—suffering.

Ken's eyes went around the room, noticing the simple, comfortable furnishings. They came back to rest on her face and such sudden yearning flashed there that she spoke hastily.

"Tell me about yourself... your own business."

"Did you know I'd left Mr. Parker's office? I'm in for myself."

At her nod he went on. "It wasn't that he wasn't considerate. He's been kind. But that was just it. I don't want kindness! I want to stand on my own. To own my own success. I've got to have something of my own."

Something badgered in his voice. She looked swiftly up at him. His head was high—not the gay, confident lift of other days. Defiant. His eyes were angry, bewildered.

He suddenly swam in the mist of her own tears. Tears which she tried, in dismay, to check. She saw that he had risen. Was reaching for her.

"Oh... Ardeth... sweetheart." A little cry halted him. A little cry from the baby. Held in Ardeth's arms, he had been fascinated by the glitter of a tiny chain about her neck. His small wavering hand had at last caught it and a scatter of tiny pearls sprinkled the girl as it broke.

The accident startled them back to themselves. Ken stooped, gathered the scattered beads.

"Really, it does not matter," Ardeth protested softly.

When Ken rose he was master of himself again. He made a desperate grasp after his self-possession.

"Have to get the Colonel home or the starved nurse will hang us both. We both thank you—shouldn't have done this, I know. A bleakness in that which pierced her heart."

Apologize to the lady, you say, for plundering her jewelry?" They were gone. The little shop was suddenly empty, with only the sunlight slanting in to fall on the mandarin coats and the bright feather fans.

Through the yellow silence Ardeth walked to the back room. She picked up the broken chain and let it drop slowly into a small velvet case.

She knew she would never mend it.

A few weeks later Ken entered Cecile's boudoir, his face pale with anger, lips nervously compressed. Though it was the middle of the afternoon he found Cecile in the hands of her maid.

Marriage and motherhood had made little difference to Cecile's habits. Her beauty was still her chief concern, and she raised a startled apparition which greeted her husband's eyes today. Swathed in a sheet Cecile lay on the day bed and her face was an astonishing dark green.

At Ken's voice she opened her eyes and made frantic movements with her hands which the gaunt Swedish maid interpreted grudgingly.

Mrs. Gleason is having a clay beauty man. If she talks she'll crack it."

"I'm sorry to interrupt at such a time, Cecile," Ken's voice was tight. "but it seems impossible to get a word with you at any other hour and I must speak with you in private."

With immobile face but blazing eyes Cecile parted her lips long enough to say furiously. "You'll have to wait. This must not be disturbed for an hour."

"An hour will be too late for my purpose," Ken replied firmly. "I've tried to see you all day. I must ask you to manage this."

A cry of warning from the maid. "Don't frown, Mrs. Gleason!"

At any other time it would have tickled Ken's sense of humor to watch Cecile trying to be angry with a serene face. She struggled up, wound in the sheet, and waved the maid away.

"Oh, all right! Go on out, Alma. I'll ring when I want you."

The woman went, resentment showing in every line of her broad back.

"Now," said Cecile, when they were alone, "perhaps you'll explain the reason for this intrusion."

Ken raised his brows. "Rather a strong word, isn't it? I intruded, as you call it, because you make it impossible for me to see you at any other time. One would think you deliberately tried to avoid me, Cecile. And I had to see you. I just learned that you invited Cyril Underhill to our dinner party tonight."

"Well?"

"You know I dislike the fellow."

"Is my future life to be guided by your likes and dislikes?"

"That's not fair!" A hint of warmth creeping in despite Ken's effort to remain calm. "It isn't that I want to force my private tastes on you. But you know how I dislike that fellow. A male gossip... a charlatan..."

A Matter of Opinion.

"That is your opinion. Others receive him. He was at Coralie Gaines' party."

Ken's face darkened. "You've only made his case worse in my eyes. Other people whom we know—and value—look, Mary East, never writes him. You never see him at the Forbyths."

Cecile forgot the injunction of her maid and the green clay split in a thousand cracks as she scowled.

"Those wash-outs! Do you think I care who they invite? Cyril wouldn't go to their dull parties anyway."

Ken struggled to keep his temper. "I'm asking you, Cecile, put it as a favor if you wish, to please not invite this fellow to the house. I've heard some of his remarks about women and I don't intend my wife shall be gossiped about."

Cecile's smile was ghastly. "Oh, you are giving orders?"

Ken flushed. "An order to protect my wife and my home from a slanderer's tongue."

Again the white teeth flashed in the dark green mask.

"You are suddenly solicitous about your wife," she said softly, and there was the hiss of a cat in her voice. "Perhaps if you worried more about your own reputation it would be more to the point."

He regarded her with narrowed eyes. "What are you driving at?"

"You know." Still in the soft tone. "But I am not surprised to know that it startles you to learn that I do as well! Well... we understand each other. I'll speak even more clearly. I'll allow you so much leeway—"

She held her long white hands a short space apart. "So-o-o much. Ken." She nodded her head.

"That is all. Therefore, you can see, as far as Cyril is concerned—he comes to the dinner tonight. And you will be pleasant to him."

Ken's eyes were blazing. "I don't know what you're talking about. And if that fellow comes here—"

Barthou Is Unable to Join French Cabinet

After a day of discussion, Senator Louis Barthou (above) announced that he had found himself compelled to inform President Doumergue that he was unable to fulfill the task of forming a French Ministry which had been entrusted to him.

Success is achieved by those business concerns who combine quality, service and persistent advertising.

PARIS—Thomas L. Chadbourne, chairman of the World Sugar conference recently held at Brussels will return to New York late next week. He came here after failure of the delegates to reach an agreement to restrict world sugar exports for the next five years in order to stabilize the industry.

Case No. 11136 Probate Court, Pickaway County, Ohio.

NOTICE OF PROBATE

In the matter of the Will of Rose Weidlich, deceased.

To Mary Mowery, W. H. Dotter, Lizzie Culp, Kate Holdren, Wm. Rudell, Ed Rudell and Anna Smith.

You are hereby notified that on the 26th day of December 1930, an instrument of writing, purporting to be the last Will and Testament of Rose Weidlich, late of Circleville Township, in said Pickaway County, deceased, was produced in open Court, and an application to admit the same to probate and record was on the same day made and filed in said Court.

Said application will be for hearing before said Court on the 30th day of December, 1930, at 9 o'clock a. m.

WITNESS my signature as Judge of the Probate Court, and the seal of said Court, at Circleville, Ohio, this 26 day of December, 1930.

LUMBERMEN TO ATTEND MEET

Every persons who owns a home, is building a home, or who may do so in the future, will be interested in the Building Products and Equipment Exposition, which will be held in Cleveland, January 13, 14, 15 and 16, 1931, at the Cleveland Auditorium.

Lumber dealers and building supply manufacturers from all over the country are planning to send to Cleveland that week elaborate displays of materials used in building fine homes. Approximately 18,000 square feet of exhibition space in the Public Auditorium will be filled with displays of lumber, roofing, flooring and other building lines.

The Exposition is sponsored by The Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers, which will hold its 50th Annual Convention in Cleveland during the week of the show.

Radio announcements will be made daily from Cleveland, in reference to the program.

"For the whole week Cleveland will be the MECCA of all who are interested in fine homes", Findlay M. Torrence, secretary of the Association, said yesterday.

"In one city will be gathered most of the manufacturers and dealers in home building products in the middle-west."

Alfred Lee, T. O. Gilliland and Wilson F. Cellar, local lumber dealers, are arranging to attend the Exposition and are taking an active part in the plans for the 50th Annual Convention of the Association.

DIAMOND TO BE GIVEN FREEDOM

NEW YORK—Jack "Legs" Diamond has completely recovered and will be released from a Welfare Island hospital on the first of the year, it was learned today. Diamond was shot four times in his hotel room Oct. 12 and authorities have attempted vainly to find out who did the shooting.

Court News

Their arrest was sworn out by Officer W. F. McCrady.

Brungs and Medley were each sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail and a fine of $200 and Coon was fined $5 and costs and given seven nights in the city jail when he turned informer and became state's witness. He told the whole story of the robbery and of selling the goods to the White Second-hand store for $2. The names of the three were listed at White's as John Barnes, Tom Miller and Eddie Strawser.

The three youths were arrested for investigation last Friday night by Officers Fitzpatrick and McManamy and Deputy Sheriff Fissell shortly after a paving brick was thrown through the window of the Given Oil Co., W. Main-st. It is possible that an affidavit for destruction of property will be filed after the terms each is serving has expired.

Whether Eddie Strawser will take action against the trio for using his name is not known.

GAME VIOLATORS FINED

Floyd Moats, Russel Moats and Marshall Shissler were each fined $25 and costs when they pleaded guilty before Squire E. C. Fricke of dragging fish with hook and line with more than 3 hooks in Darby Creek. They were arrested by Game Protector Clarence Francis.

Pin money

A FIVE-CENT PAPER of pins as a wedding gift would now be considered bizarre and the donor "tight," to express it mildly. Yet pins were once so scarce that none but the wealthy could afford them. A box of pins was the ne plus ultra of wedding presents, as much admired as costly jewelry and silverware.

As pins became less expensive and in more common use, women were provided with a certain amount of money to be devoted exclusively to the purchase of pins. And so the expression of "pin money," was originated. The phrase now has a much broader meaning and denotes any allowance to wife or daughters for personal and incidental expenses.

Pin money now buys a thousand and one things dear to the hearts of womenfolk. The advertising columns are scanned eagerly by millions of women to see what is offered that comes within purse limits. They know that the advertisements enable them to buy wanted articles at reasonable cost.

Advertisements also keep them informed of the latest news in the world of fashion. It tells what Paris is wearing in dresses, hats, hosiery and footwear. It pictures gowns for evening, afternoon and street wear, as well as simple little house frocks that are charming in their simplicity. Advertising introduces improved household utensils, new foods, automobiles in gay colors—in short, everything that the heart of woman could desire.

And that is why women are such careful readers of advertising. It enables them to make their pin money buy more and last longer. It helps them keep expenses within the household budget. Every one could read advertisements. It is one of the simplest habits to cultivate, and pays dividends in savings and personal comforts.

their arrest was sworn out by Officer W. F. McCrady.

Brungs and Medley were each sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail and a fine of $200 and Coon was fined $5 and costs and given seven nights in the city bastille when he turned informer and became state's witness. He told the whole story of the robbery and of selling the goods to the White Second-hand store for $2. The names of the three were listed at White's as John Barnes, Tom Miller and Eddie Strawser.

The three youths were arrested for investigation last Friday night by Officers Fitzpatrick and McManamy and Deputy Sheriff Fissell shortly after a paving brick was thrown through the window of the Given Oil Co., W. Main-st. It is possible that an affidavit for destruction of property will be filed after the terms each is serving has expired.

Whether Eddie Strawser will take action against the trio for using his name is not known.

GAME VIOLATORS FINED

Floyd Moats, Russel Moats and Marshall Shissler were each fined $25 and costs when they pleaded guilty before Squire E. C. Friece of dragging fish with hook and line with more than 3 hooks in Darby Creek. They were arrested by Game Protector Clarence Francis.
